Another way to test surrounding logic is to preinitialize the entire RAM (a) or one location in RAM (b) and then use the contents to generate test data for the logic. You can use the "scantestmode" signal to disable the RAM’s write signal during scan test.