Figure 6 A switch-matrix mixer using ideal switches can also make a zero-IF signal. Starting with an RF signal and a strong interferer (a), the first conversion creates the low-IF signal (b). The switch-matrix mixer moves the signal to the baseband (c). Filtering removes the unwanted frequency components (d).